

maxIT Healthcare Named to HCI Top 100 List

Ranked 56th Among Healthcare Information Technology Companies

Westfield, IN — June 2010 — maxIT Healthcare, a leading professional consulting services company for healthcare providers, has been recognized by Healthcare Informatics (HCI) as a 2010 Top 100 Healthcare Information Technology company. HCI provides an annual ranking of the top 100 healthcare IT vendors based on revenue. This is the first year that maxIT has submitted data to be considered for the list.

maxIT provides critical IT support that helps healthcare organizations improve their clinical, financial, operational and IT outcomes. With over 350 senior consultants, maxIT offers implementation, project management, and strategy expertise in healthcare information systems (HIS), electronic medical records (EMR) systems, enterprise resource planning (ERP) systems, payer systems, clinical imaging and informatics systems (for radiology and cardiology), and management consulting.

“We are pleased to be recognized by HCI, and to be the highest ranking privately held IT consulting firm on the list,” said Parker Hinshaw, CEO and Founder of maxIT. “We will continue to focus on growing our business by providing highly skilled and experienced consultants who maximize IT outcomes for our clients, and by providing a positive and supportive company environment that allows our consultants to grow and develop to their potential.”

Healthcare Informatics is one the industry’s leading publications and resources for more than 40,000 healthcare IT professionals. The HCI list, which also includes the leading hospital information systems companies and other healthcare-related software firms, was recently published in their June issue.
